Sing will come to South Shore March 17 and 18 of next year. The Central Sing Commission has been set up with Miss Maddy Yazwinsky as the overall Sing Coordinator.

The Commission is composed of Miriam Cyrulnik, Junior Commissioner; Steven Wald, Sophomore Commissioner; Lynn Bittner, Freshman Commissioner; and Eleanor Schultz and Laura Golden who are, respectively, Secretary-Treasurer and Public Relations Administrator.

The function of the Central Sing Commission is to prepare Sing, choosing who will be able to run for choral leader and sing leader. The choral leader is in charge of the music direction and the Sing leader is in charge of overall operation of Sing. The Commission also okays the scripts and songs and raises the money for Sing.

Groups Meeting

The premier meetings of Sing took place during the week of December 6. The early turnout was about 300 people. Miss Yazwinsky and all the faculty advisors (Misses Iris Lucash and Irene Satin for freshmen; Misses Carol Hammer and Phyllis Friedman for sophomores; and junior advisor, Arthur Richman) are working to make the Sing successful.

Sing, as conceived in neighboring Brooklyn high schools for many years, is an annual song-and-dance show often satirizing school and society. Classes compete with each other in performance quality.

Pinpoints

- Local junior high school principals met here with Dr. Lawrence Feigenbaum on November 30. After lunch, principals from Bldg. 2, Mann, and Marine Park, among others, toured the building.
- Arranging a film making course, Mr. Jerome Tanklow, head of the English Department, is in the midst of acquiring film apparatus for this new program.
- There was a preview of the Winter Concert and an arts and crafts exhibition during the December 16 P.T.A. meeting.

Drivers' Ed. in Fall

By Jamie Rosenberg

Driver Education will be brought into the curriculum, effective in the Fall of 1972. This course was introduced to the Council members by Mr. Herb Cooperman at the Consultative Council meeting held September 30, 1971.

Mr. Max Bromer, former principal, had indicated that a Driver Education program would cost the school thousands of dollars. Dr. Lawrence Feigenbaum, present principal, indicated that we will, in fact, have the program.

The course will be available only to seniors who are sixteen years of age. The course will consist of 16 driver simulators and three actual cars for training. There may be no fee charged for this program.

Requirements Are Few

Mr. Cooperman stated that the program would be included as a daily part of students' schedules. The problem of over-subscription for the program was explained by Dr. Feigenbaum who said that since the student would have to meet the requirements of being at least sixteen and having room for the course in his program, many students would automatically be disqualified. However, if over-subscription became a problem, some other equitable mode of selection would have to be arrived at.

Mr. Jack Daniels, Industrial Arts Department chairman, who is in charge of the new Driver Education program, will work out the exact details of its operation.

Staples & Pins Day?

By Mark Diamond

Brooklyn Staples and Pins Day "declared" by Shorelines November 24 was an attempt by the editors to show through satire, the foolishness of the many self-made holidays that students have declared. Unfortunately it created some confusion. In school and on the busses people asked each other whether they would take off on this day of holy reverence.

Comments

When asked if he took off, Charles Q. Epstein, a student, said no. "I realized it was a hoax," he said.

Marc Frons didn't stay home either, the reason being that "I don't believe in pins and staples." Jeffrey Levy did take off but not because of the article. "I didn't even know about it," he cackled.

Ana Henry didn't take off because she "knew it was a joke," and "realized it wasn't a holiday."

Lonnie Juli didn't sleep late but might have if it weren't for, "an important test" he was to partake in that day.

Finally Mr. Michael Gluck, a well known and revered teacher, didn't stay home with the Mrs. He believes, "It's not enough of a religious holiday."

If nothing else, Pins and Staples Day proved that we are still ethical and are bound and content to trudge through life with only the God-given legal holidays. Too bad, too bad.

Students View Murder Trial

How does the judiciary system work in light of the division of powers between federal and state governments? Does economic status affect the degree of justice served? These are two of many questions Mr. Murray Eisenstadt's American Studies classes attempted to find the answers to when they went on an excursion to the New York Supreme Court on December 8 in order to view a murder trial, People vs. Henson. The case was tried by Judge Michael Kearns, who is in charge of Section 3 of Criminal Term Capitals.

On March 5, of this year, a woman was murdered and a man was seriously injured when four burglars robbed their East New York home. Ten days later, Herman Henson was arrested for the murder. Another one of the youths who was supposedly involved, was Herman's brother, Bobby. He has not been seen since the night of the crime and although investigators, public and private, have searched for Bobby, his whereabouts are still unknown.

Testifying on this day, were the arresting detective, the private investigator and Herman Henson's

Outside Lunch Suggested

By Jeffrey Levy

To provide students and teachers with the chance to make suggestions and provide an open and free forum to express ideas about our school the first Student Forum was held November 24.

Suggestions were made pertaining to permitting students to leave school for lunch and more freedom involving areas such as cutting and carrying coats. These questions will be answered during the next scheduled forum. Later in the year forums will be held sixth period. Students will be notified through their homerooms.

Zonka Debate

On Monday, November 29 the Executive Council's first debate was held, sponsored by Zonka. Its purpose was to promote a fair election by having the voters actually meet and hear their candidates' issues instead of only seeing posters.

The small turnout was blamed on poor publicity and widespread student apathy. Those who came saw the candidates present their major objectives. Zonka's editors saw this student turnout as a beginning, and hopes to get more students increasingly involved in running and managing South Shore. Another debate will be held before the Consultative Council elections and Zonka invites all to attend.

Exec. Council Reps. Chosen

By Ruth Kleinman and
Van Vinciguerra

Barbara Stein, Pamela Hirsch, Gary Cohen and Ruby Hope were elected ninth grade Executive Council representatives in elections held schoolwide December 1.

Tenth grade representatives are: Chris Aiello, Jeff Watnick, Van Vinciguerra, and Thomasine Merritt. Janet Angelastro, Seth Marmor, Cecelia Williams, and Barbara Caporale are the eleventh year representatives.

Activities planned by the Council are a ski trip, a hay ride, movies in the school, dances, and a carnival. Some extracurricular activities include volleyball and chess. The first annual ski trip is a one-day affair scheduled for December 18.

Members of the Executive Council want students to become interested in the student government. They want to hear more opinions and ideas from the student body at Forum meetings.

In next year's elections there will be a full assembly program presenting the candidates to the entire student body. During this program candidates plan to make speeches expressing some original ideas they feel might help our school.

EDITORIAL

S.S. Observed By Japanese

Recently, South Shore High School was visited by a group of Japanese educators. They had spent six months traveling around the world and looking at schools in the Soviet Union, Germany, Great Britain, Italy and other countries. Arriving in the United States, they were told officially that American education at its best could be seen at South Shore.

So they passed a day here inspecting our educational program and came to an expected conclusion: South Shore was the most remarkable school they had seen anywhere in the world. It has a fine student body, with immense potential for achievement in a diversity of academic areas. It has a superb faculty, with many devoted and truly inspirational teachers. And, of course, it has facilities which are unparalleled.

South Shore Complimented
I have a highly complimentary letter from these Japanese educators, and we all have reason to be pleased at their laudatory comments. Make suitable allowance for their attempts to surmount the language barrier, and join in reading portions of their report:

"I am thankful for your kindness to allow us to see your school . . . We are much impressed with the new trial of your library and in science department we are surprised that your chief is quite passionate in teaching and doing other things. In language department the chief explained us how they are doing as to language teaching and our language teacher can have useful help for teaching."

Thank you very much and I hope we will last our friendship hereafter.

Yours sincerely,
Genji Kawabata, Leader of Kanagawa Inspection Tour.

But this delightful episode in the life of South Shore High School leads to a more sober reflection. The unhappy fact is that South Shore — the great school that it is, and the yet greater school that it promises to be—is in grave danger. At this moment, cutbacks in educational funds may seriously weaken public education in this city and state.

We must join in our common interest so that our school and all public education, may prosper.
Lawrence Feigenbaum, Principal

Never Again

By Richard Rudnitsky

Six million needless deaths,
A number that's unreal,
Six million painfully torturous deaths,
Of pain we cannot feel.

Three million more are suffering,
Because they are called Jews.
It's happened before;
It could happen again,
And we've hear it in the news.

Throughout the world, people would read . . .
"Soviet Jews are Demolished."
Most wouldn't mourn,
But say, "That's a job well done."

Kosygen is a Nazi you know.
Please, let my people go.
All people should be free;
Pain and suffering are things
No one can foresee.

This time though,
There'll be action,
No matter where,
No matter when,
And we'll fight back,
To make sure it will happen
NEVER AGAIN!

Because of student apathy, there are no letters this month.

mother and girl friend. The investigators were asked routine questions by the defense lawyer who seemed to get nowhere. The only thing the defense lawyer got out of the mother was the fact that Bobby was missing as of March 5, a fact already established numerous times.

The final testimony today was given by Herman's girl friend and this was when the aimlessness of the defense was proved beyond a doubt to all in attendance. When asked questions by the defense attorney about exact times on the date of the murder, she responded almost immediately with distinct times. The D.A. then retaliated by saying that only about two weeks after the arrest, the girl friend stated that she had no idea whether or not she even saw Herman and she had no ideas about the time on the day of the murder. After studying the previous testimony, the defense attorney tried to find a way to discount it. He tried to prove she was confused, but she was apparently not.

After this altercation, we students left, most of us with the same ideas. On the bus we dismissed the ineptness of the defense lawyer and spoke of how a rich man in the same situation as Mr. Herman Henson would be able to hire a more experienced lawyer and win the case. The viewing of a court trial was an interesting and enlightening experience, but as we left, we were reminded of a large sign above the judge's seat; it said "Justice is truth in action." Funny, but that didn't mention anything about money.
—R. W.

Reps. Chosen Blindly

By Eric Rowinsky and Theresa Pitter

The unfairness of the recent elections was noted by many students because of the lack of publicity given to it. The fact that there were no assemblies arranged to introduce the candidates and their proposals made the situation worse.

The Executive Council candidates were supposed to debate on November 29. This debate was arranged by Zonka. It was unsuccessful because only about 50 students attended. Either students were too lazy to come, or the fact that the debate was held seventh period (and in order to attend most students would have had to cut classes) apparently caused the small turnout.

Election Date Obscure

The elections were held December 1, a date unknown to many students. Some students chose their candidates by the size and color of the posters throughout the halls and some by guessing. We can agree that the campaigning was very poor and that the elections were more of a popularity contest than a democratic election in which the students would know all candidates.

This year's elections were basically no different from those of last year. Last year's elections received heavy criticism from the student body. By observing no change in the form of elections, it is easy to see that the students are losing interest in school affairs.

Where Is Student Power?

What is the scope of student governmental power? Contrary to popular belief, the student government is limited in many aspects of student affairs. The major power of the government is the budgeting of funds for extra-curricular activities. This power is the only fair governmental power. The rest are devoted to the scheduling of dances and the arranging of cookie sales. Is the full purpose of our constitution to give budgeting powers, allow dances, and cookie sales? It appears that the answer is yes.

Selected students spent several months planning an elaborate constitution. Our constitution guarantees no real power for the student government. It appears that the rights of our government are for the most part restricted to the handling of trivial matters, which could be handled by anyone.

False Impressions Continue

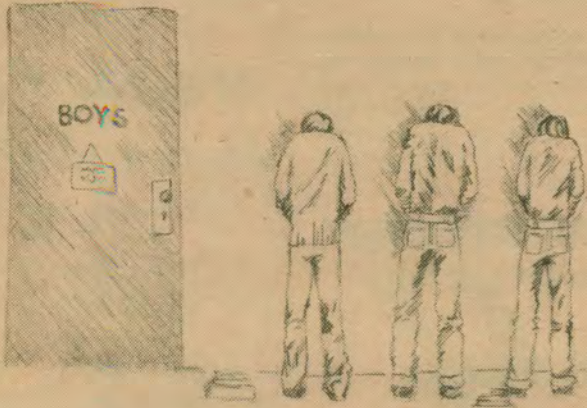

I see nothing wrong with dances and cookie sales; but are there any other student powers? Many students who run for office are under the impression that what they do will have a great effect on the school. This is untrue. The administration of every high school has the full right to control every aspect of student affairs. This is almost all right, but not quite. A problem caused by this is that students voting will choose a candidate under the impression that they will have a fair voice in student affairs.

Students should not be led to believe that they can control important school activities. At the moment we are powerless to have a larger say concerning scheduling, courses, going out to lunch, and other problems affecting students. We should not be lied to and given a fancy constitution. Students want to be aware of their situation, even if it is poor. Because a false assumption is allowed to remain, students expect super feats of legislation from their government. When the student government cannot meet the demands of the students and come through with their promises to aid all, they are held in contempt by the student population. This causes much unrest and frustrates many who are seeking to improve the system.

Trust Is Necessary

As students, we are in a poor position to cause change in our situation. The most we can do is try to influence through our Consultative and Executive Councils. We may have to find a better system for getting things done other than through our student government. Much of the responsibility to better the state of the student's relation to the education system rests upon the shoulders of the administrators of all the city high schools. Better standards must be set city-wide. If they would trust students more, and tell it like it is, the high school atmosphere would be better for everyone.

OUT OF ORDER?

Salute To Our Athletes

Editorials are usually written to complain, argue, and dispute, but finally we've seen the light that editorials can praise too. Our praise goes to the students of South Shore who participate in athletics and give their time and sweat while most of us are at home eating an afternoon snack. We mainly thank our track team, the Striders, and the South Shore football Vikings for the championships they have brought us this past year.

Striders Sacrifice

Marty Lewis, our phenomenal track coach, has worked hard with the sacrificing students of the track team. He and his team have given us many freshmen and sophomore championships. Training for track is tough and most of us would quit, but guys like Seth Marmor, Richard Fuchs, Mark Schlacter, Carlos Castillo, and William Keeby have stuck it out through winning and losing. They have given, and will give, all they have for South Shore and the Striders.

Vikings, Real Champs

The Vikings, coached by Marty Senall, shocked many by winning the junior varsity championship. With only two months' practice they defeated six teams and tied one, beating the best in the city. The men on the team worked all summer and then gave all they had during the season whether playing or on the bench. They played as a team for South Shore and its pride. They sacrificed and succeeded.

The girls' bowling team is rated first in the city. Our basketball coach, Sam Beckman, is starting a hoped-for successful season. Steven Goldman is planning strategy for our upcoming baseball team. Our soccer coach, Steve Cohen, is contemplating next year's plays. All these faculty members and students have sacrificed much for South Shore. We take this opportunity to thank them.

Chris and Rich Legree, athletes par excellence

Athletes of the Month

The well known touchdown due of Chris and Richard Legree have been chosen by Shorelines as the athletes of the month. Richard, 16, eleven months older than his brother Chris, has received many touchdown passes from his brother, including one in the championship game against Lincoln. Chris passed for 123 yards in that game, leading South Shore to its first football championship.

Chris and Richy, two of nine brothers and sisters, went to Somers Junior High School. Chris has won 40 sporting achievement awards, including the Somers Outstanding Athlete Award, while his brother Richard has won 21 awards and the Somers' Most Popular Boy Award. These show a token of their athletic ability, since Chris is a guard on the basketball team and infielder/pitcher on the baseball team as well as a football quarterback, while Richy is on the junior varsity basketball team and is an infielder on the baseball team.

College Hopes

Both athletes have received letters from colleges, mainly the University of Pittsburgh. They plan to go to college and hope they receive athletic scholarships.

Their love for sports has put them on the top in what they do. Both Richy and Chris, as taught by their family, have pride in whatever event they partake in. They don't remember when they began playing ball but only know they want to do their best and compete against the best. Their five year old brother attends all the games, and is sure to follow the family tradition started by the boys' grandfather. Rich and Chris Legree are two exceptional athletes and we thank them for their contribution to South Shore.

Candy Jackman of the HRA Visits Schools Once Weekly

By Alin Wolff

Kendall Jackman, a 16 year old junior, is an Executive Intern working with the Department of Social Services of the City of New York.

Her job is a part of the Joint Executive Internship Program of the Human Resources Administration and Board of Education, or the H.R.A. program. It was instituted to give selected high school students the opportunity to receive valuable job training and experience while continuing their studies.

The program is still in the experimental stages, working out of the city's high schools for the first time. To qualify, a student must be college bound, between the ages of 16 and 18, and show ability in leadership and academics. Kendall alone was chosen from this school for the program.

Right now Candy, as she is also known, is working at the H.R.A.'s Manhattan offices under the Assistant Administrators of Special Services for children. She visits our school once a week to pick up her assignments. Candy does all of her school work on her own.

Due to shortage of funds, none of the students on the program will receive pay for their work. "Instead," says Kendall, "we're all assured summer jobs and acceptance by any of a number of colleges and universities. I think we're much better off this way."

With Special Services for Children, Candy comes in contact with various city shelters and private organizations. Candy is very observant and extremely devoted to her work. She has already made many fine suggestions, and contributions in the department. Among them, she is calling for improved conditions and psychiatric care for the homosexual child. Candy is also dissatisfied and annoyed by the great amount of insolence and red tape she has encountered.

Kendall's stay in the H.R.A. program will last only one term in order to give others the chance to take part in it. In February she'll return to school, to her friends, to her Afro-American club and track team after what she has called "a very interesting experience."

Happenings At South Shore

• The Aspira Club is designed to aid Spanish speaking students with the problems and anxieties that they encounter in our society today. Its leader and founder is Sylvia La Cruz.

It consists of meeting members, which Mr. Joel Berman, the advisor, conducts in Spanish. During the meetings the members discuss the obstacles that confront them in school and at home. Mr. Berman feels that they are all facing a tremendous "identity crisis" which he hopes the club will help to solve.

• The results of the Cookie Sale were very disappointing. Only $500 was made from the sale. Mr.

Mark Friedman, S.O. advisor, expected $3,000 to be made by it. Why don't you sell some cookies? See Mr. Friedman for information in Room 322.

• Kaleidoscope, the winning name in the literary magazine poll, will be a 32 page magazine of prose and poetry. Linda Peck and Bonnie Rubbach are the editors who are working very vigorously with Mrs. Rochelle Shatzman, Miss Iris Lucash, the literary advisors, and Mrs. Esta Ross. The editors plan to express poetry of all groups including the Chinese, Negro, Italian, and Jewish. Linda and Bonnie are happy to receive material, so if you have some writing, bring it to Room 312 and contribute. • The school ring, picked by a student committee, will be sold this year to juniors. The ten karat gold ring will have a Viking head made from the letters S.S.H. on one side and a Viking ship with the year of one's graduating class on the other. A choice of a purple or gold stone will be offered. An artist's drawing of the ring will be posted around the school.

Retraction

The quality and preparation of hamburgers and other foods sold at neighboring stands could not adequately be judged by the reporters who evaluated them in the November issue of Shorelines.

While retracting their rating of hamburgers on the basis of quality and preparation, Shorelines maintains that its reporters validly measured both taste and looks in its report headlined Gourmet Burgers?

The retraction was voluntarily agreed upon after Mr. Jack Margulies, owner of Benson Burgers, visited the Publications Office to register his unhappiness with the story. He pointed out that the reporters would have no way of determining how food was prepared or its ingredients. Mr. Margulies invited reporters to spend a day in his establishment any time they liked.

Shorelines regrets the error.

Tropical Fishing

By Barry Chaiken

As do all hobbies, keeping tropical fish costs money; but with proper shopping, the hole in your wallet will not become very big. The three stores in the Shorelines neighborhood where one can buy tropical fish and accessories for them are Tropical Fish Supermarket, at 2890 Nostrand Avenue near Kings Highway; Mr. Joseph's Pet Villa, 5709 Flatlands Avenue and East 57 Street; and Ed's Tropical Aquarium, 2133 Ralph Avenue in the Georgetowne Shopping Center. Through careful purchasing in each of these stores one can set up and maintain tropical fish at a reasonable price.

Buy Equipment Separately

The best way to buy equipment is by purchasing each part separately. The so-called starter kits are just wastes of money since you are partly buying things either of poor quality or of no use to you. A good tank can be bought cheaply at the Tropical Fish Supermarket. Also, any kind of filter or air pump, food (Tetramin or Biorell flake foods, freeze-dried foods or live foods), or miscellaneous parts (diaphragms, siphons, nets, valves) can all be bought at very good prices. The Supermarket has good quality equipment at low prices but their fish are not of the best stock.

Fish Sales

Mr. Joseph's Pet Villa has fish of excellent stock and often runs sales on them. Their equipment prices are as good as the Supermarket's except when on special. A big plus is that the management is responsive to your needs, which makes it a pleasant store to patronize. If you have any prize fishes or stocks of your own, you should talk to the owners of Pet Villa because they do buy fish from local hobbyists.

The last and most expensive store is Ed's Tropical Aquarium.

A general rule I've made about this store is that if the item you want isn't on sale, you shouldn't buy it. Ed's is often ridiculously over-priced that when they have sales on some merchandise, they are able to lower the price of a $6 item $2., or 33%. Ed's does sell everything of good quality but one must remember it is only a good buy when on sale. This rule applies to fish also. The fish that come from Ed's are of the best stocks and the management is responsive to complaints concerning them. Ed's is well known for their fish remedies also.

Food Sore, Fish Store

There is one surprising place which I didn't mention where bargains can be found and that's the food supermarket. If you look in the pet section, often nets, foods, thermometers, remedies and tubings can be bought cheaply. Inexpensive glass scrapers and cleaners can be purchased in the housewares department.

Tropical fish are fun and rewarding to have. With the right buys, they can be cheap too.

S.S. BOWS TO GRADY

By Seth Marmor and Steve Belgarde

In a game marked by turnover after turnover and a fight in the closing seconds of the game, Grady Vocational High School beat the South Shore Vikings 72-67 on Tuesday, December 14 at South Shore.

When Mike Hockaday was called for travelling, he threw the ball at a Grady player. This exploded into a fight where spectators as well as both benches poured onto the court. The referees soon got everything under control and the game proceeded. This all occurred with only 9 seconds to play in the game and Grady leading 72-65.

South Shore led twice by 8 points in the second and third quarter. Grady, sparked by the great shooting and defense of Donald Watson, came back to lead South Shore by 1, 33-32.

In the third quarter South

Shore streaked again to an 8 point lead, 47-39. It seemed as though South Shore was going to pick up the victory, but the spoiler, Donald Watson, came through again for Grady.

With Donald leading through superb defense and steals, Grady overpowered South Shore with a 14 to 2 spurt, giving them a 4 point lead, 53-49.

In the opening of the 4th quarter, Bradley Mitchell committed an offensive foul when he walked into a Grady man's, elbow. His eye began to bleed but coach Sam Beckman soon got everything under control.

S.S. vs. Aviation Today

South Shore is put against Aviation today in a varsity basketball game. Tickets can be bought at the door. Come down and watch a good game against two strong basketball schools. South Shore will make its move NOW.

Vikings Win Title

By Ronald Goodman

After an amazing 5-0-1 season, the Vikings clobbered Lincoln High School 30-0 in the Borough Championship. Although the score seems to indicate a one sided game, it was actually much more of a contest than any of the other games this year, with the exception of Canarsie.

Defense

Lincoln moved quickly after the opening kickoff but was set back by penalties. Scott Schneid and Ralph Briales dumped the Lincoln quarterback on the 12 yard line, forcing them into a punting situation. A bad snap sailed into the end zone, and Clyde Brown pounced on it for the Vikings' first touchdown. Freddie Ginsberg carried it over for the two point conversion.

The Vikings had the ball on their 35 yard line after Ralph Briales blocked a Lincoln punt. Quarterback Chris Legree threw a beautiful screen to Ginsberg who ran 35 yards for the score. The conversion failed as South Shore led 14-0.

Brotherly Love

In the second quarter, Chris Legree threw a bomb to his favorite receiver, Rich Legree, who made a phenomenal finger tip catch in the end zone. Clyde Brown scored on the conversion and the Vikings were ahead 22-0 at the half.

Perhaps the most discouraging thing for Lincoln as they went into the locker room was that they had played better than the Vikings the first half, allowing only two first downs, and keeping the ball for 15 of the 20 minutes.

The final score came in the last quarter on a 16 yard pass from Chris Legree to Tony Vasquez. The Vikings showed very little of their well balanced offense that they had throughout the season, picking up only 7 yards on the ground, and 115 in the air. The defense again played brilliantly, recovering 4 fumbles and two interceptions.

Striders Go!

By Seth Marmor

The Striders had an unbelievable cross country season, obtaining victories in the Frosh and Soph City Champs, the Freshman Flatbush Champs, and the Freshman 4 and 8 mile relays.

Oliver Thomas, phenomenal freshman, set two city records. His 14:18 for two and a half miles at Van Cortlandt Park was the best ever run by any track man of South Shore. His second record was for two and a quarter miles. Ray Harrison and Mark Schlaeter were also making their names known. Both have run around 15 minutes or less for two and a half miles at Van Cortlandt Park, the toughest cross-country course in the East.

Polar Bear Season

The upcoming Polar Bear season should be a great one for the Striders. Our sprinting team should improve tremendously this year with the addition of Matt (Turkey) Williamson and Dan (Grandpa) Wetherspoon. Also looking good are Mark Levine, Richie Vella, Richie Goodman, and Richie Fuchs.

The Striders are by far one of the top track teams in the Public School Athletic League, and should continue victoriously in the seasons to come.

Female Feats

By Laura Golden

Under the direction of Miss Maddy Yazwinski, the girls' bowling team has put together a victorious season. Led by Virginia and Diane Kabak, the girls have scored victories over neighborhood schools such as Wingate, Tilden, Midwood, Madison and Erasmus. They finished the season with only one defeat.

Gymnastics

With vigorous training, much talent and cooperation, a girls' gymnastic team has been formed. Considering all aspects of the team, the girls should be overwhelmingly victorious. The team's formation would have been impossible without the hard work of advisor, Mrs. Elaine Hals. She has developed a well spirited and anxious group of girls. As a result, the girls are eager to commence with the coming events.

SPORTLINES

By Eric Goldfarb and Bruce Kasman

Along with the pleasures of having the best quality of sports in the world, New York City fans also have great problems in obtaining tickets and getting to see games. Scalpers, muggers, and ticket shortages are among the problems the fans must encounter.

The N.F.L. is prime example of how it is almost impossible to see a game. Besides blacking out home games, almost all of the seats at Shea and Yankee Stadiums are sold as season tickets, which are passed down within a family.

Baseball, because of the long schedule, has the best plan of any sport. An average fan can almost always get a good seat to any game. Baseball management does not sell a large block of tickets until two hours before game time.

The Garden

Madison Square Garden has

problems not encountered by large outdoor stadiums, because of the lack of seats and the number of fans. When tickets go on sale for an event they are usually sold out immediately, and in many cases, to scalpers who buy a large majority of the tickets. They will sell them for enormous profits. Scalpers will also type up their own tickets which they will sell to unsuspecting fans.

A major problem which has been found is travelling to the stadiums. At Yankee Stadium, parking facilities are terrible and even if you can park a car you might be surprised with a slight fine when you return.

We feel that it would be in the best interest of New York sports fans if all promoters would put a large number of tickets on sale the day of the game.

The management of Madison Square Garden should limit the number of tickets to be bought by each fan to 10. The police should prevent scalping in and around the Garden. Busses should be provided to fans to go to and from the stadiums.

The promoters of N.Y.C. teams have a great responsibility to the fans of N.Y.C. who actually finance the events. The promoters owe a lot to New York fans who are the top fans in the world.
